REALTY DEEDS FILED 1 PASS MILLION MARK

Large Increase Over Last Year Shown in Values Represented.

RAILWAY MORTGAGE CAUSES A BOOM

Many Building Loans Recorded for Late Spring and Early Summer Operations.

The lid appeared to be off in the money market and the figures ran rempant this week. A total of more than $1,000,000 is shown in the deeds of trust filed for record during the last six days, and the number of transactions in realty evidences a decided increase over the corresponding period of 1809.

The report of the Recorded of Deeds for the week shows that 573 papers were needed to convey the business of the last six days, while only 505 transactions were recorded in the eveal a net increase of eleven papers for each of the six days.

The great boom in the money market is accounted for by the filing of a $500,000 mortgage by the newly reorganized Washington, Potomac and Chesapeake Railway Campany. The company has pledged all its property, rights, and franchises to the Bucks County Trust Company, at Doylestown, Pa, to secure the payment of $500,000 in 5 per cent boads, maturing in fifty years. The property of the company lies in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Building Loans Made.

Quite a number of building loans were made during the past week preparatory for late spring and early summer build-for late spring and early summer building operations. More than $200,000 was borrowed for this purpose, to be expended in the rorhwest, northeast, and in nearby subdivisions, noticeably at Petworth, wich seems to afford an active market this spring.

While the prices paid do not appear from the record, it is interesting to note the transfer of three properties in the business section. Premises 604 F street and a house around the corner on Sixth street, between E and F streets, and one on Twefth street, between G and H streets, changed hands during the week. Capt. Archibald Butt, aide to the President, became an owner of District real estate last week by the purchase of the premises at 1923 H street northwest. It is not known whether he bought as an investment or for a residence.

Two hupdred and fifty parcels of realoutlying subdivisions furnished and the near-urban section In the northwest there were 59, in northeast 23, southwest 21, and in southeast 12.

The pitchy darkness of the stricken city, due to the destruction of the electric light plant, added to the horror of the first night of Cartago. Hunger made the people frantic. Orders were issued to slaughter several steers, and the meat was distributed to the people. There being no means of cooking the meat, many built small fires on which their portions were barely scorched and then eaten.

their portions were barely scorched and then eaten.

"The government ordered several trains to be got ready and placed them at the disposal of the neople who were desirated one of reaching San Jose. In one of the destroyed houses a shoemaker's body was found with his hammer tightly clasped and his hand raised as if in the act of striking the shoe on which he had been working. Death must have been instantaneous. One man was found with his pen in hand.

"The plaza de Cuartel was used to lay out the dead for identification, and heartrending scenes were witnessed on the recognition by the fathers, mothers, wives, and children of their dead ones. Many bodies were unidentified and were buried inmediately.

BOSTON, Mass., May 14.-Granting one lemon to a glass of lemonade, which is a liberal basis, there are enough lemons stored at the Clyde street pler, in East Boston, to furnish about six glassfuls for every man, woman and child in Greater Boston. There were 19,600 boxes and half boxes of lemons left there by the steamship Sannio, from the Mediterranean, and as they will average about 300 to the package, the total number of lemons is 6,000,000 in round figures.

To assume that the Clyde street ples might be turned into a mammoth punch bowl and to agree with the circus follower that one lemon furnishes plenty of juice for two glasses of lemonade, this might happen: Squeeze the six million lemons, pour in 750,000 gallons of water, add 600,000 pounds of sugar, stir the Sannio's twin-screw propellers and pass around 12,000,000 glasses of lemonade.

Few large consignments of lemons have been landed at Boston from the Mediterranean in the last three years, and to supply the market further, the Romanic arrived with 5,000 more boxes, which were landed at Charlestown. To handle the 19,600 boxes which came from the Sannio's hold was a problem in itself, as anyone could discover who saw the 'longshoremen piling the fruit away.

I managed to make and save enough money the following summer and fall to buy two more catas. With that beginning I have kept straight ahead, studying my cats and questioning other breeders about theirs. I have had several setbacks from ignorance, accidents and one cause and another, but now my earnings are about as regular as those of any farmer or stock raiser.

"The popularity of the Persian cat as a household pet is due to its affection, cleanliness, intelligence and beauty. In beauty I believe it is considered to be almost, if not quite, unexcelled.

"By nature Persian cats are loving and genile, but because they are somewhat nervous in temperament if they do not get the right treatment they sometimes become veritable furies. But fortunately even these can be tamed. I have never known a long haired Persian that would not become docile and loving under good care. In dealing with cats it is well always to remember that their confidence is never as easily won as that of the average dog, but once it is your. A few white or gray halrs in the coat of such a cat will knock hundreds of dollars off its value, but if by chance there should be such hairs you must not remove them. Only dishonest dealers would think of such a piece of tricker, and in breeding cats as well as all other occupations honesty is the best and safeet policy."
